ROTARY AROUND THE WORLD—ITALY

A rising number of young people with eating disorders prompted the Rotaract Club of Terre Cremasche and the nonprofit Consultorio Insieme Crema to conduct workshops for people ages 20 to 35. Beginning in April, the series covered three topics: body image, mindful eating, and wellness and sustainable dining. The sessions were developed in collaboration with counseling centers and psychologists. "The aim is to guide participants in critically examining their eating habits and the emotional and historical significance of meals," says club member Emma Prévot. The club funded much of the program with a gala cocktail reception in the town of Crema's civic museum, housed in a 15th century convent.
